

Box notes:

Thank you for your patience. Traveling is easy, but getting that cheeky panda to give up his roll of film was nearly impossible.

Please plan 28 minutes to enjoy as a slideshow. The photos are in chronological order to help you with context, except where necessary. I've reordered a few to provide landmarks where we should have noticed and captured.

The videos won't be any less shaky, but much higher quality if downloaded and viewed separately.

All credit must go to Sarah, who did not get to see any of Nimrod, except through the viewfinder. If you have not yet found your life traveler, choose as well as I did. Home can indeed be a wandering heart.

Notes are my own, under the "i" icon in the album (but not in the slideshow). Please pay them no attention.

Fun drive in left-hand 4x4.

Drove north up the east side of the island. Had the phone on the whole trip.

Stopped at Grenville for gas. Rubi's Gas Station.

Small properties under a big sky.

It's easy; keep the sea on your left going up, and the sea on your right coming down (it's always just 100m straight down anyway).
